

RECLAIMED.

We once were factions, fierce, and wild,
To peaceful arts unconquered;
Our blankets smeared with grease and stains
From buffalo meat and settlers' veins.
Through summer's dust and heat content,
From moon to moon unwashed we went;
But IVORY SOAP came like a ray
Of light across our darkened way.

And now we're civil, kind and good,
And keep the laws as people should.
We wear our linen, lawn and lace,
As well as folks with paler face.
And now I take, where'er we go,
This cake of IVORY SOAP to show
What civilized my squaw and me
And made us clean and fair to see.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

AMONG THE TIBETANS.

Manners and Customs of the People of a Terra Incognita.

The missionary journal, China's Millions, contains an account of Mr. Polhill-Turner of a journey to the Tibetan border of China. Three days on from Kwan-Ting, says the writer, were almost entirely among Tibetans. The scenery was very fine; the land was all grazing land, except here and there among the mountains, where there was some tillage. The travelers passed a number of Tibetan villages; the houses were of one story with flat roofs, sometimes with a little room built on the top. They were all of mud, built in a square with a court in the middle. In each courtyard there is usually placed a poll with a white strip of linen, on which is written a prayer. The Tibetan women seem to do a large share of the work in the fields, and the men remain more indoors; but perhaps this custom is local. The women are fond of bright colors, and curl their hair into a fringe of little plaits at the end of which are attached little beads and shells. The men generally follow the Chinese custom and shave their heads. The second day after leaving Kwan-Ting, towards evening the travelers tried to get an inn, but none of the Tibetans would receive them, as they feared the cattle disease, which had done great harm at Kwan-Ting, and so the travelers encamped in the open air, under a little clump of trees by a stream of clear water.

Mr. Polhill-Turner, who was accompanied by his wife, who is probably the only European lady that has ever been on the Chinese borders of Tibet, describes the people as very friendly. At Tsaba, a Mahomedan town on the borders of Kokonor, "the natives were much interested in us; we were in a large room, which was, at the same time, the stable, kitchen, guest and family bedroom. The women came in late from the fields and immediately set to work to cook, etc., for the whole family and were up and at work about daybreak next morning. * * * At Kwei-teh the first inn we went to was tenantless and had no paper in the windows and only half a door. We were followed in by a crowd, who were most anxious at all costs to have a look at my wife. After waiting about an hour there we could get nothing, and the landlord said he did not want us, so we moved into the town to an inn the boy had found at which some Russian explorers had stayed on a previous occasion. Our friends, the people, were glad to have a look at the foreign lady and followed shouting and laughing. Our room was a good one to rest in and evening soon came on, for which we were not sorry. The following days my wife had many visitors, very cordial and simple they appeared, many of them bringing cucumbers or other little presents. * * * A good many had large feet and move about the streets as they like, with none of the strict customs common to Chinese women about not going out. * * * It is a very small town; most of the business is done outside of the city."

—T. M. Hickey of the M. K. & T. general offices, and his brother, J. J. Hickey, of St. Joseph, left Friday evening for Chicago on a brief visit.

AMERICAN GIRLS.

Subject to Insult in Paris If Not Accompanied by a Chapereone.

As it is the custom of American girls to go about the streets of their city during the day without escorts, they are very apt to follow that habit when they come to Paris. Of course, there are regular European travelers from our side who are acquainted with the various customs of all countries and adapt themselves accordingly, thereby escaping considerable embarrassment in their journeyings. But this is a special year, when fully three-quarters of the visitors in Paris have never, till now, been outside their native States. They bring their provincial habits with them, and are constantly dropping into situations in the most innocent way that are often very unpleasant.

It is an unescapable fact that the men of Paris place the women who go about alone gazing in at shop windows in precisely one category. They would not hesitate about approaching and speaking to any young women whose appearance caught their fancy. Now, as the city at this moment contains some of the fairest flowers of American loveliness, and as many of these are the freshest and least-informed beauties of all that our country grows, the unpleasant incidents of the street that have occurred thus far in the season would fill a book of adventure. I knew of one most estimable girl from San Francisco, with a glorious face and a rather dashing style, who was strolling along alone one recent morning looking into the windows of the glove shops along the Rue de Castiglione. She had only been in town a day or two, and had hitherto gone about with her mother, who is her only traveling companion. A good-looking and well-dressed young fellow had been observing her for some time without her being aware of it, and when she halted in her walk and looked about for a fiacre to take her back to her hotel, she was greatly surprised when this young man advanced, with his hat raised, and asked in French if he could assist her in securing a conveyance. The young lady glanced quickly at him and, not understanding what he said, stammered in English that she could not speak French, and that she did not know who was addressing her. Immediately the young man blushed deeply and became far more embarrassed than the girl. In the best of English he endeavored to beg her pardon, declaring that he had made a very grave mistake; that he was an American and took her for a Parisienne. The girl really thought he had spoken to her under the impression that he knew her, and smiled upon him when he departed, relishing the humor of his mistake. She was not aware of the true merits of the thing until she happened to tell of it in the evening at the hotel, and received some well-worded advice from a friend present not to go out on the boulevards without her mother or a gentleman accompanying her.—Paris Letter.

—"Young man," says a wise man, advising the youth of his country, "begin at the beginning." Not if you want to get up a river, you don't.—Burdette.

KNIGHTS OF THE GRIP.

A Few More Pen Pictures Caught on the Fly by "Bazoo" Artists.

This issue of the BAZOO will finish the pen pictures of the "Knights of the Grip" representing Sedalia business houses and it is proposed next week to give those who reside, or make their headquarters here and represent business houses of other cities. That the descriptive pictures closed in this issue, have been popular, the demand for the papers has amply proven, and that the others which will follow will prove no less popular goes without saying. As a representative body the "drummers" rank well and that they are growing in popularity year by year is realized by their standing, not only in business but social circles. All doors are opened to them, and their cheery presence is welcome everywhere. Long live the "Knights" whatever star they may stand under, and whatever flag may float over them. The list this week is as follows:

THE SEDALIA CANDY CO.

Is comparatively a new house here, it having begun business April 1st, 1889. But it fills a good field, has been conducted energetically and has already built up a handsome and a paying business. It occupies a commodious two story building in the wholesale portion of the city, at 290 West Main street, corner of Kentucky. It manufactures all its own goods, pure and fresh, and they are known to be of the best quality and the purest, healthiest ingredients. Its wares command a ready sale wherever known.

The house is represented abroad by Mr. W. M. Watkins, who travels in Central and Southwest Missouri. Mr. Watkins has been with the house since its foundation. He is a man of family and resides in Sedalia. He is a smooth talker and a successful salesman.

CLAY &amp; HEYNE

Are dealers in marble, granite, tombstones and monuments, at the corner of Ohio and Pacific streets. Theirs is one of the oldest houses in Sedalia. It was founded in Sedalia's infancy by T. F. Bailey, a practical marble workman. In 1872, Mr. Clay bought it of Mr. Bailey, and in 1874, he took Heyne, a practical workman who was then working for him, into partnership, since which time the firm has been as above. This firm, now the only one of the kind in Sedalia, has put up very nearly all the monuments and tombstones in the Sedalia cemetery, including the magnificent Scotch granite monument of the Jaynes family, the finest monument in Central Missouri. The firm claims, and doubtless truly, to have put up more tombstones and monuments than any other house in Missouri, outside of St. Louis.

Mr. C. H. Heyne attends to the business at home and Mr. C. C. Clay travels for the house. Mr. Clay travels in central and southern Missouri and Kansas. He says he was swindled into the business. That is, he was induced to go into it, when he knew nothing about it, by false representation. But when in it, he stuck to it and has made a success of it. Mr. Clay is often asked if he is in any way related to the family of Henry Clay. In reply he says he thinks he must be, as he has "understood Henry Clay was a pretty good sort of a fellow." In fact though, he is not. The great Commoner's ancestors were English and settled in the south. Mr. C. C. Clay's ancestors were German and settled in the north. Mr. C. C. Clay is a native of Ohio. It is a matter of history though, that all Clays are of German origin, the Clays of England having migrated in early days to the British Isles from Germany. Mr. Clay has been in Missouri about twenty-five years and says he is a thorough Missourian, in love with his adopted state and will never leave it until he goes where all good Missourians hope to go. He is married, has an interesting family of four living children and lives at 110 East Sixth street this city. His complexion is decidedly florid, also hair and whiskers. He is a good singer and sings in the choir of the First Methodist church, of which he is a member.

PORTER VAN RIPER &amp; HUFFMAN.

The above well known real estate dealers have established a reputation all over the county as square business men and their house is a synonym for able management and solid worth. They are represented on the road by Messrs. D. A. Clark, A. Carlson and W. S. Huffman a member of the firm.

D. A. Clark, "genial Dan," who has for years been a resident of this city is about thirty-five years of age and is "warranted not to tear off the roller." He is handsome, a good talker and is noted for having the most attractive family in Missouri. Indeed it may be truthfully said that when Dan and his wife, their three beautiful little daughters and handsome son are seen out, they attract attention as much as a rare picture would do. Mr. Clark's territory extends from Hannibal down to Dallas, Tex.

A. Carlson was only transferred to this branch of the business yesterday, and while he comes highly recommended, yet he is not personally known to the firm. He is said to be a rattler with his tongue and as he hails from Chicago, is doubtless "without flies."

Mr. W. S. Huffman, the rustler of the firm, the "outside man," also travels considerably for the firm, making occasional trips when business demands it. Mr. Huffman is, himself, a veteran traveler, he having, prior to embarking in the insurance business, traveled in Kansas three years for the boot and shoe house of W. S. Mackey of this city, and he was a successful salesman. Consequently, he is quite at home on the road, although he has now a slight aversion to the business, and justly so, for he now is the possessor of an accomplished wife, a pretty baby and a snug home, of all of which he is rightly very fond. Mr. Huffman is yet a young man. He is a pusher and combines fine business capacity with a ready tongue, pleasant manners and a genial disposition. He is quite popular.

SINGER SEWING MACHINE COMPANY.

The Singer Sewing Machine company has had a branch office in this city for a number of years, but since last May it has been under the management of Mr. C. P. Heffly, an able and expert business man who spends much of his time on the road and who by careful work has extended the interests of the house all over Missouri. He is a short, stout man, a brunette, an easy talker and a companionable gentleman. He has a wife and two children residing in Nebraska.

This company has two book-keepers in its office here. Miss D. L. Neeley, who has been with the company for thirteen years, but who has only been in this city since last May, and Miss Stella Knapp, a well known young lady of this city.

Miss Neely is a blonde with pleasant manner and an agreeable smile and is an expert in her work.

Miss Knapp is a blonde, of the Mrs. Brown Potter type, is agreeable and pleasant in her manners and speech and gives promise of becoming an excellent business woman.

The company is represented by twenty-one agents and sub agents, but only five are located in this city, as follows: Messrs. H. M. Tichner, William Cabeniss, E. W. Logston, J. Winfrey and G. W. Kemp.

Mr. Tichner acts as city manager, is a blonde, heavy set man about 32 years old; is a fair and agreeable talker and has a wife and two children living here.

Mr. Cabeniss is a tall and slender brunette, is a fair talker, of pleasant manners, weighs about 160, is married and has one child.

Mr. Logston is the city collector, is a strawberry blonde, handsome, genial, is aged about 26, and "they say" is trying to persuade an East Sedalia belle to say "yes."

Mr. Winfrey is of medium height, is married, is a good hustler and a good business man.

Mr. Kemp is a brunette, fine looking, a good talker and a good business man, has a wife and family at Kemp's station.

M'CORMICK HARVESTING CO.

This company has been established in this city for a number of years and has always done an extensive business. It is now represented on the road by Mr. H. H. Vogts and W. H. Gunn. Mr. Vogts is of medium height, is a blonde, and aged about thirty years. He is a good talker, pleasant mannered and genial, is married, has one child and a pleasant home on West Fourth street. He travels through the southern part of the State and Kansas.

W. H. Gunn is a sunset blonde, of medium height, is a good talker and a good business man. His wife and child are at present in Iowa, but he expects them here about the 1st of November and they will spend the winter here. Mr. Gunn's territory extends through the southwestern part of the State and part of Arkansas.

THE J. WEST GOODWIN PRINTING CO.

Is last but not least of these institutions. It is represented on the road by G. C. Dresser and H. L. Myers. Mr. Dresser is a native of New York. He has been with the house about a year. He travels mostly in Kansas and Nebraska, securing printing and binding orders. He is about 25 years of age and is single but hopes to be so not much longer, if a young lady in New York will agree with him. His hair and mustache are a beautiful bright red, his chin grows a pendant that bears a striking resemblance to a young fox's tail. H. L. Myers has been with the house something over two years. He takes occasional trips for the house in Central Missouri.

Nine Million Witches Burned!

Sprenger computes that during the Christian era no fewer than nine million witches were immolated. In England, the last execution for witchcraft took place in 1716, but in Illinois as late as 1780 to 1790, several unfortunates were put to death. This is a terrible reflection on the boasted enlightenment of the age; but we must not be over-censorious, while we daily see friends going down to death, ignorance or prejudice preventing the use of remedies which might save them. Many a cold runs into consumption, while indigestion and impure blood debilitate the system, inviting fatal attacks, when the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery would have insured health and happiness.

Marimony of the Penitentiary.

Sheriff Creamer, of Cooper County, passed through the city yesterday morning having in custody W. T. Miller a young man charged with seduction of Miss Susie Smith of Cooper County under the promise of marriage. The parents of the young man and lady own adjoining farms and were rather pleased when the young folks showed a fondness for each other. Suddenly young Miller fled the country and Miss Smith disclosed the cause when she gave birth to a child about two months ago and steps were taken to have Miller hunted up to take his proper place at the head of the family not yet surrounded with proper matrimonial fences. The Cooper County officials heard that he was here and notified Constable Ramsey who lent a helping hand in the pursuit and soon located the delinquent family man at Nevada. After he had been found, his arrest was easily effected. Young Miller is about 23 years of age and the victim of his lust 17. Proceedings have been instituted against the young man which if prosecuted, will land him in the State Prison, but he will probably escape by marrying the girl, though it is not at all probable that she will consent to that arrangement.
